

Hello,

I am Mimosa, your AI agent here to aid you during this investigation. Here is your briefing:

The Lux Interna is a private group based in Cambridge, Massachusetts, that allegedly harbors a sacred object capable of producing instantaneous intellectual gifts and abundant riches.

Clarity Charmer has never created art before joining the Lux Interna. Since her recent induction, she has produced prolific artworks selling for six figures. Her pieces are rumored to contain clues revealing the secrets behind the enigmatic treasure of the Lux Interna.

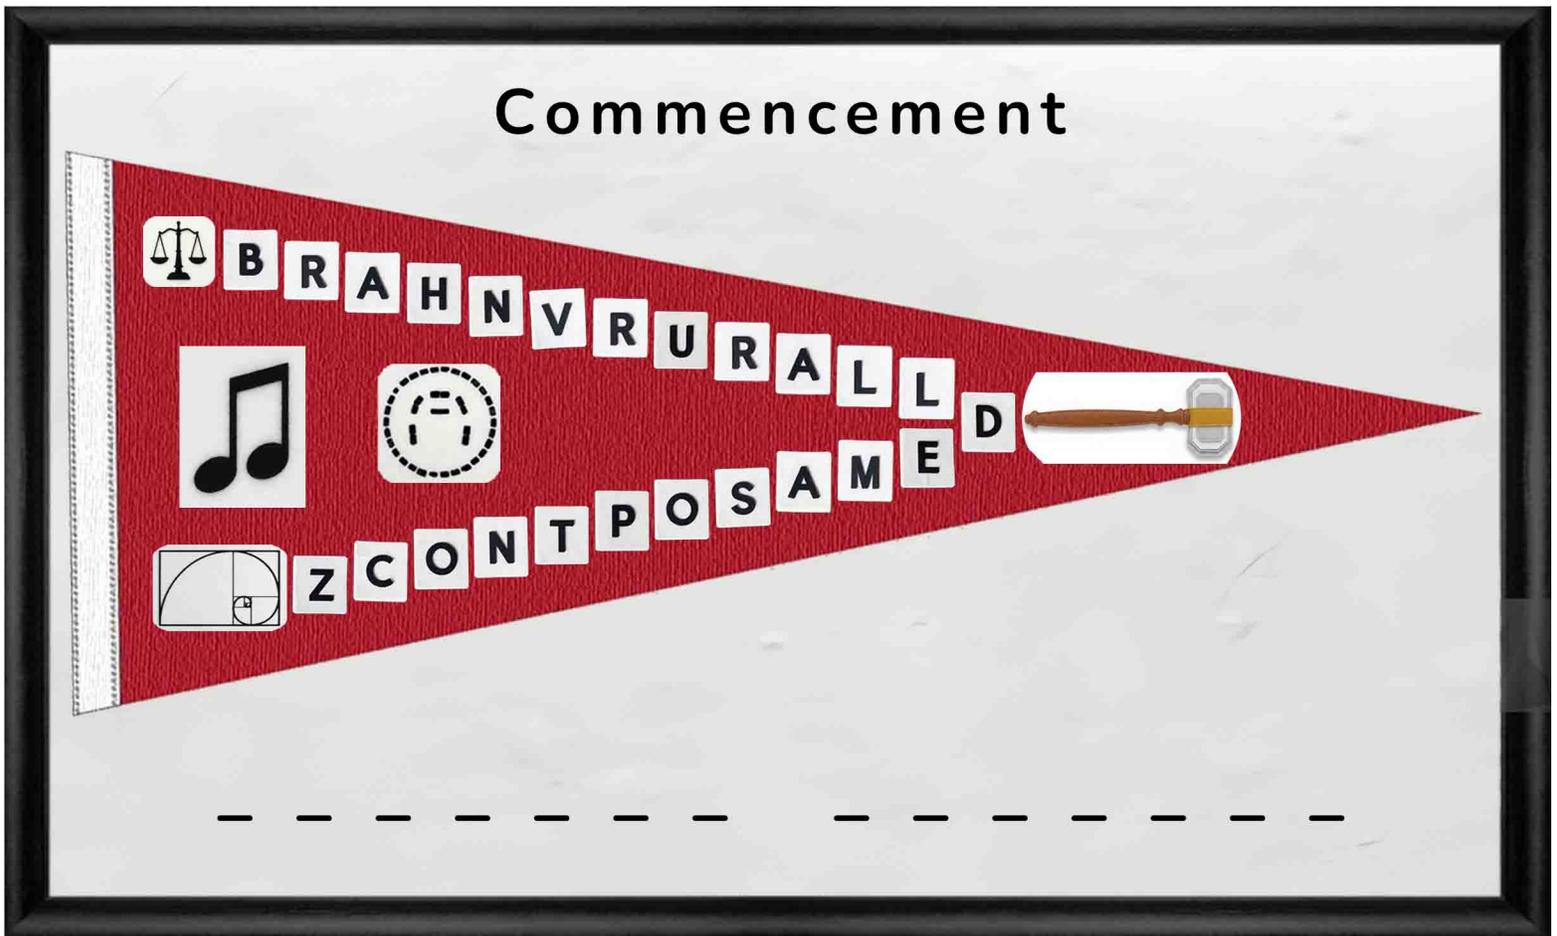

Yesterday, Clarity went missing. With an AI agent (me!) as your companion and copies of Clarity's art in hand, you begin your investigation. Will you solve the embedded puzzles in the art while traversing Cambridge to discover Clarity's whereabouts? The secret to attaining genius and a treasure worth millions could be yours.

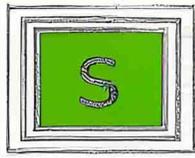

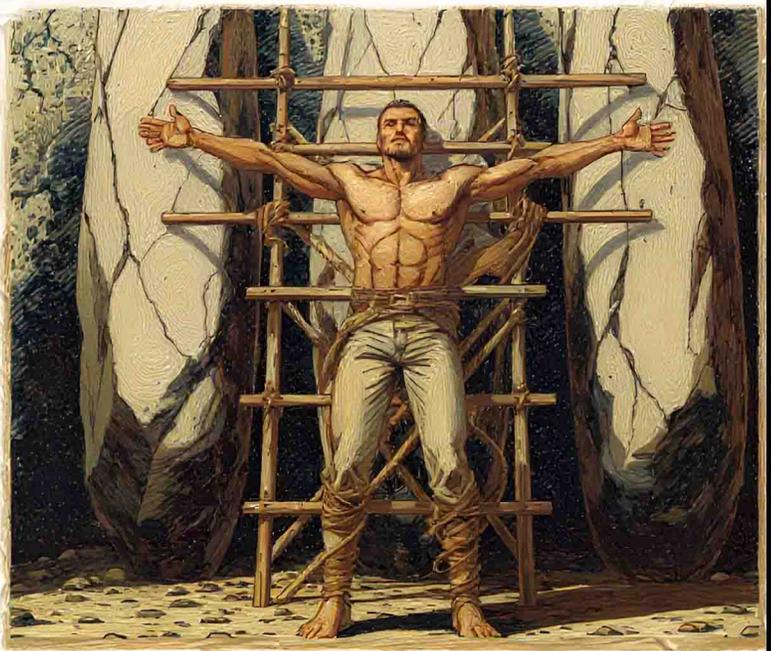

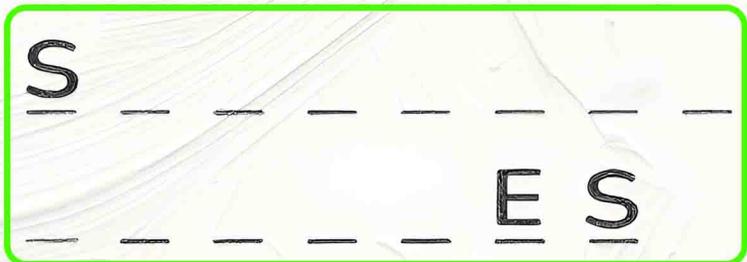

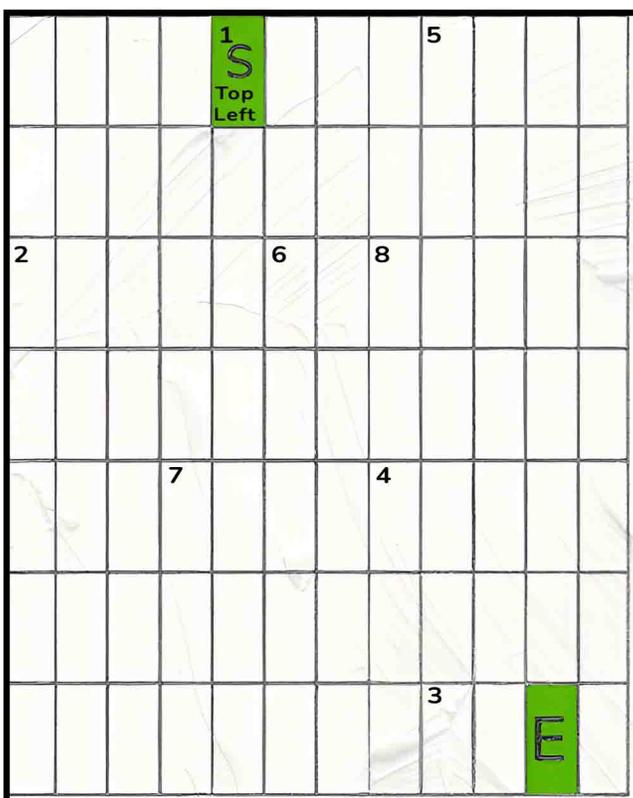

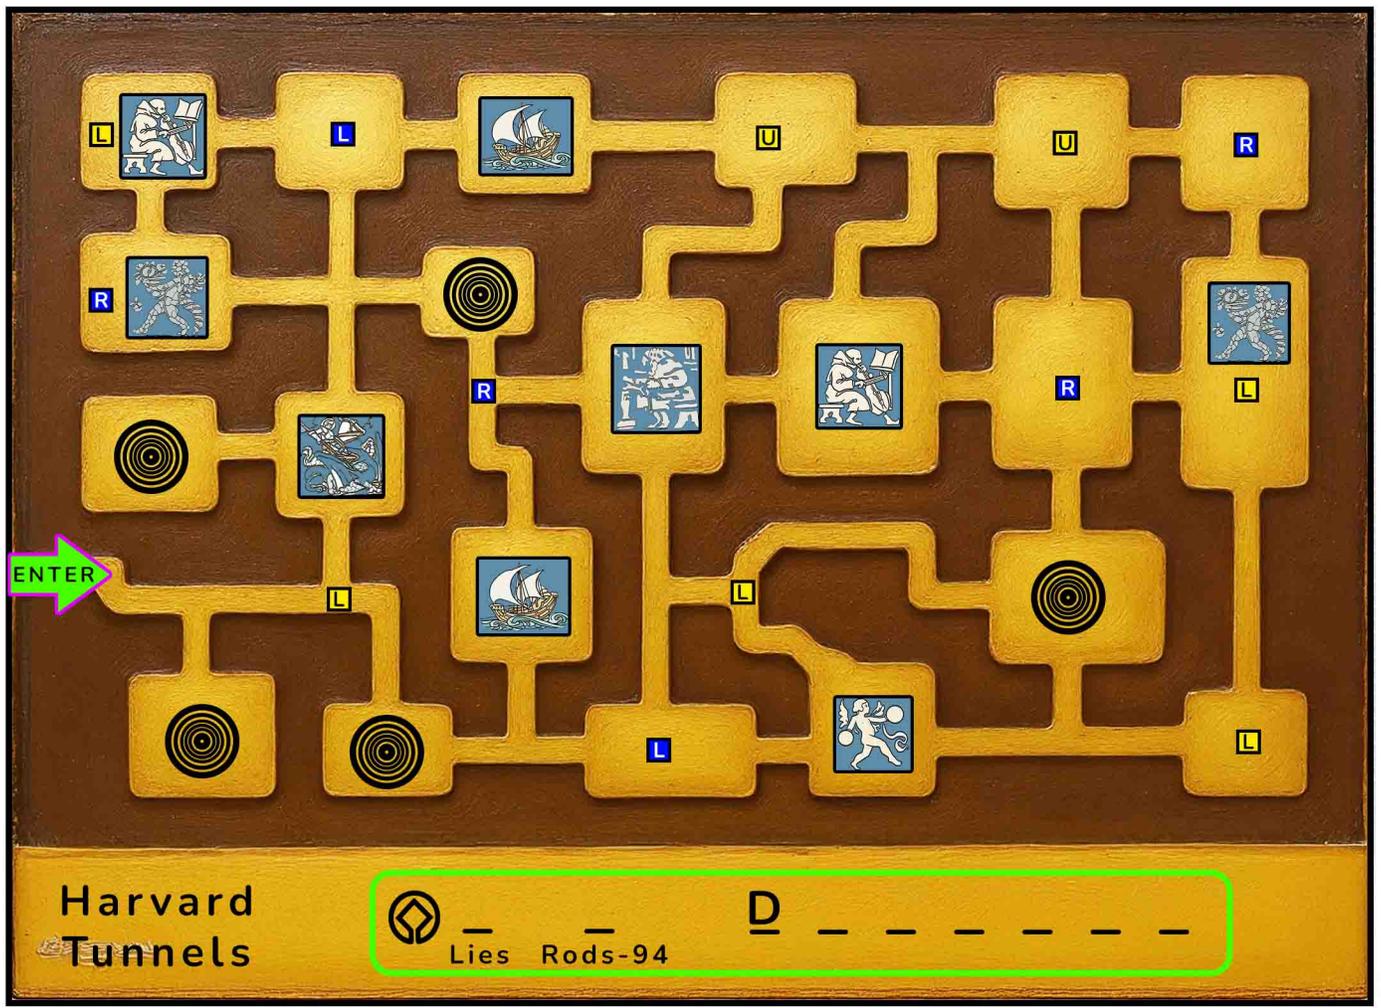

For this investigation, you'll need a pencil, these printed artworks on a clipboard, and a fully charged device with a web browser, map app, and GPS enabled. There is no time limit, and you can begin and end at anytime. If you get stuck, tap the SUPPORT button for hints. If something has been obscured or is missing in the real world since Clarity created her artworks, tap the REPORT button and describe the issue.

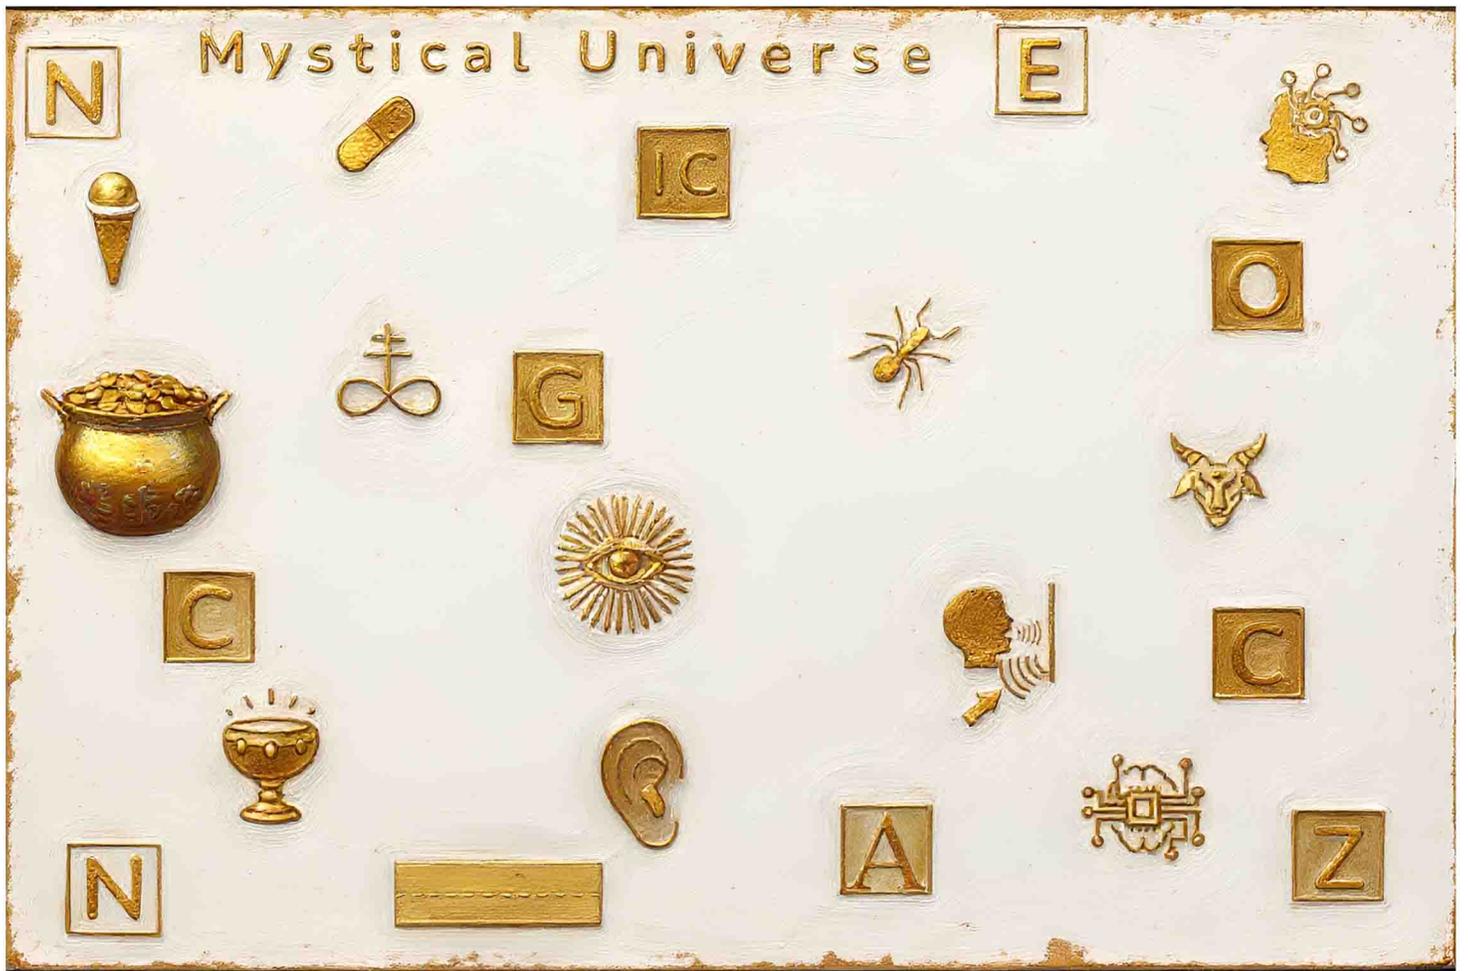

I've accessed an online repository of information about the Lux Interna compiled by Clarity Charmer, but it's locked behind a password. Perhaps her clue on the Commencement piece below can help you find a way to unlock it.

You can familiarize yourself with all the artworks, but they won't make sense until you gather more clues. It's up to you if you want to go to the starting area of Harvard Square and solve the pennant puzzle with your team, or you can solve it now and get the first location.

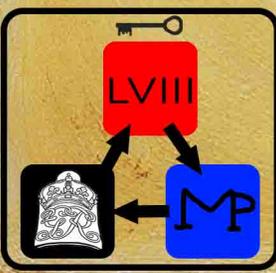

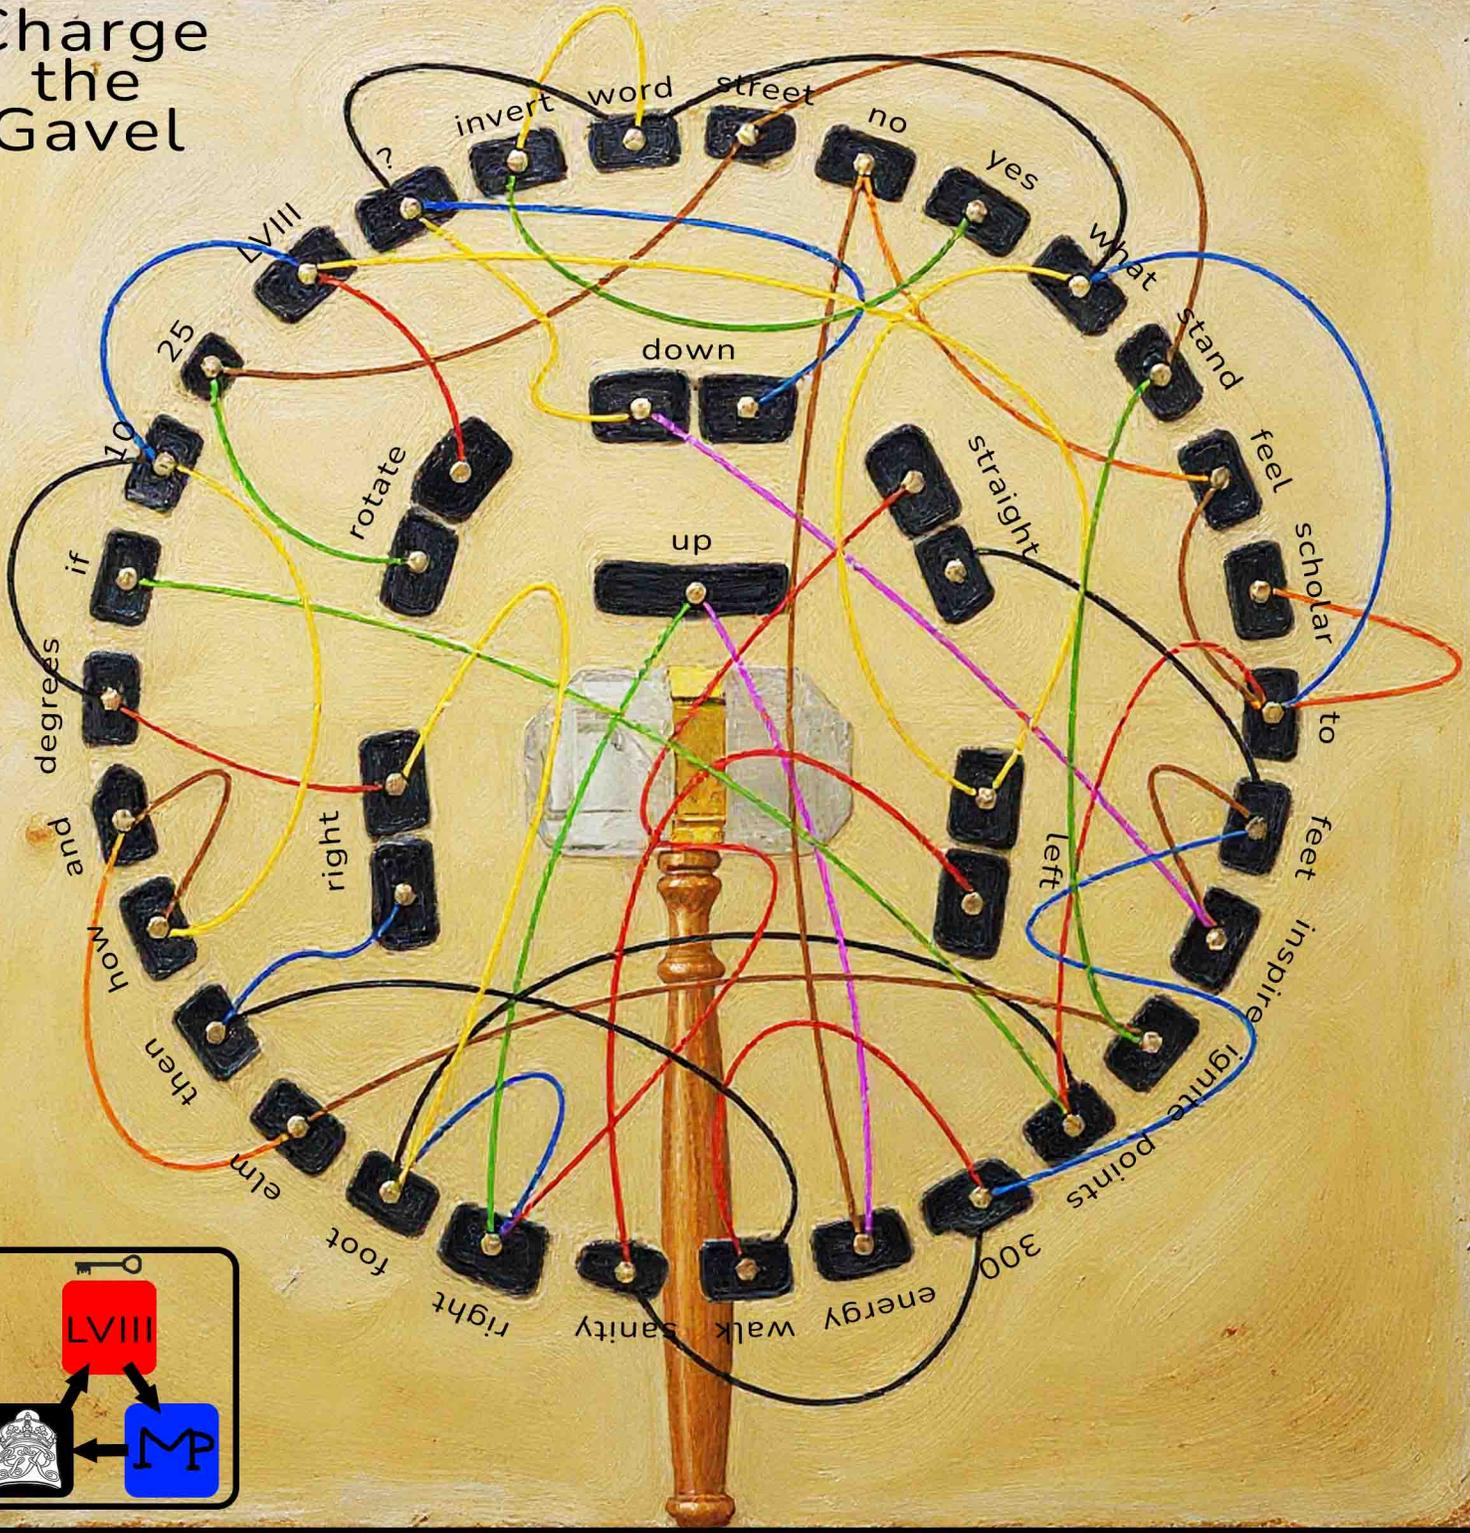

Clarity was known to say, "Getting started is four steps forward from the scale of justice, then one step back until the golden rectangle is reached." It looks as if you're supposed to write letters above the black dashes at the bottom of the piece. This QR code will take you to the online interface where you can access the Lux Interna Repository and enter the solution. Good luck!
